During your surgery, you received human tissue. Many donors or their families choose to give the gift of sight through corneal donation; today you are the recipient of this gift.

Grieving families gain solace from knowing their decision to donate may enhance, or potentially save the life of another individual. Since many surviving families of donors want to know the final outcome of their loved one's gift of generosity, receiving a note of gratitude from a recipient can be of great consolation to them.

Through Donor Network of Arizona, who coordinated this donation process, you can write your donor's family and let them know what this gift has meant to you. To respect privacy, it is advisable to sign only your first name and avoid including other identifiable information. No contact information will be conveyed without your explicit permission and that of the donor family.
